One day Nasrettin Hodja wanted to go to the market. All of the children in the village ran to him. "Please, buy us whistles from the market!" they shouted. The Hodja said, "Don't shout so much, I can't think. All right, I promise. I'm going to buy them."

One of the children, Ali, said, "Please take this money, Hodja. Don't forget to buy me a whistle." The Hodja took the money and put it into his pocket. Then he went to the market. In the late afternoon, the children waited in the street for the Hodja. When they saw him they ran to him and shouted together, "Hodja! Where are our whistles? Have you got our whistles?" The Hodja took one whistle from his pocket. He gave it to Ali and he said to the others, "Ali paid for the whistle, so he can blow the whistle!"
